

Vanguard Target Retirement 2015 Fund

Balanced fund (stocks and bonds)

Investment objective

Vanguard Target Retirement 2015 Fund seeks to provide capital appreciation and current income consistent with its current asset allocation.

Investment strategy

The fund invests in Vanguard mutual funds using an asset allocation strategy designed for investors planning to retire between 2013 and 2017. The fund's asset allocation will become more conservative over time. Within seven years after 2015, the fund's asset allocation should resemble that of the Target Retirement Income Fund. The underlying funds are: Vanguard Total Bond Market II Index Fund, Vanguard Total Stock Market Index Fund, Vanguard European Stock Index Fund, Vanguard Pacific Stock Index Fund, and Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund.

The fund's indirect stock holdings consist substantially of large-capitalization U.S. stocks and, to a lesser extent, mid- and small-cap U.S. stocks and international stocks. Its indirect bond holdings are a diversified mix of investment-grade taxable U.S. government, U.S. agency, and corporate bonds, as well as mortgage-backed securities, all with maturities of more than 1 year.

Who should invest

- Investors seeking both a reasonable level of income and long-term growth of capital and income.
- Investors seeking a simple way to achieve a broadly diversified holding of stocks and bonds that will gradually become more conservative in its allocation.
- Investors seeking to retire between 2013 and 2017.

Who should not invest

- Investors unwilling to accept significant fluctuations in share price.
- Investors seeking maximum long-term growth of capital.
- Investors expecting a guaranteed level of income upon retirement.

Vanguard Target Retirement 2015 Fund

Plain talk about risk

The fund is subject to the risks of its underlying funds. As the underlying funds invest in stocks and bonds the fund is subject to several stock and bond market risks, any of which could cause an investor to lose money. However, based on the fund's current allocation between stocks and the less volatile asset class of bonds, the fund's overall level of risk should be higher than those funds that invest the majority of their assets in bonds, but lower than those investing entirely in stocks. As the fund's allocation among underlying funds gradually changes, the fund's overall level of risk also will decline. In addition to the risks inherent in the asset classes of the underlying funds, the fund also is subject to asset allocation risk, which is the chance that the selection of underlying funds and the allocation of fund assets will cause the fund to underperform other funds with a similar investment objective. An investment in the Target Retirement Fund is not guaranteed at any time, including on or after the target date. For further details on all risks, please refer to the fund's prospectus.

Investment terms

Bond: A debt security (IOU) issued by a corporation, government, or government agency in exchange for the money the bondholder lends it. In most instances, the issuer agrees to pay back the loan by a specific date and make regular interest payments until that date.

Dividends: A payment of cash or stock from a company's earnings to each stockholder as declared by the company's board of directors.

Expenses: The costs of running a fund, expressed as a percentage of the fund's assets. For example, a fund may have expenses that total 0.30% (less than half of 1%) of its assets.

Interest: Payments made by a company, a government, or a government agency to investors who lend them money. For example, an investor buys a bond from a company, which agrees to pay back the loan by a certain date at a set rate.

Mutual fund: An investment company that pools the money of many shareholders and invests it in a variety of securities in an effort to achieve a specific objective over time.

Total return: The change in the net asset value of an investment, assuming reinvestment of all dividend and capital gain distributions.
